Relax... Connect... Entertain...

Hello!

Some of my most significant memories have been made in and around our gazebo.

There's just something about connecting inside a gazebo that fosters intimate and memorable conversations. Whenever the weather permits, our family eats dinner in the gazebo. The gazebo is always the focal point of our pool parties and family gatherings. For an especially important conversation with a friend or family member, I say "meet me in the gazebo." My favorite spot to read the morning paper is outdoors in our gazebo.

What makes this gazebo business so fulfilling for me, my brothers and our entire team are the many cards, letters, e-mails, and pictures we receive nearly every day from customers who are thrilled with the wonderful experiences and memories associated with their gazebo. You will enjoy some excerpts from these cards & letters throughout the catalog, as well as personal stories on pages 52, 74, 106, and 110.

My brothers and I, along with our fantastic team, look forward to enhancing your landscape, your lifestyle, and your relationships with an Amish Country Gazebo. Along with our four sisters, the four of us boys grew up together on a dairy farm in the Amish Country here in picturesque Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Now, with the help of local craftsmen – our Amish relatives – we passionately embrace a 100% commitment to serving you well.

Throughout the past four decades, tens of thousands of homeowners and contractors have added a gazebo, pergola, or pavilion in order to enjoy making lifelong memories. These individuals have become our friends, and what a joy it has been to serve them!

We look forward to serving you so you can create your own special gazebo memories!

*"Our guys had the gazebo done in a couple days. We love love love it!
 There is not a day goes by that we are not out in our beautiful gazebo. Birthday parties are so much more fun now and all our family love playing games, cards, or just sitting and visiting.
 Grandkids love it too. Also our neighbors. Our backyard looks so beautiful now."

Leave the world behind...

That's what happens when you step into an Amish Country Gazebo, Pergola, or Pavilion: the temperature drops ... the body relaxes ... and the mind wanders.

You get a fresh perspective – an invigorating splash of tranquility – whether you're enjoying a morning cup of coffee or an evening glass of tea ... whether you're laughing with family or reading alone ... whether you're engaged in a meaningful conversation or lost in your own thoughts.

And when it comes to gazebos, pergolas, and pavilions, the Beiler brothers have made sure there is none better than an Amish Country Gazebo.

First, it is your gazebo. Designed to your specifications. Featuring the very details you selected.

Second, it is fashioned with the skill and attention to detail that have defined Amish craftsmen throughout the generations. It is an assurance of quality you won't find anywhere else.

And, finally, it is backed by a lifetime warranty.

So please take a moment to look through the pages of this catalog and take the first steps toward enjoying the beautiful gazebo, pergola, or pavilion you've always dreamed of having.

Let a gazebo, pergola, or pavilion become the favorite room of your home. Now you can relax, connect, and entertain outdoors virtually year-round with various sizes, shapes, and lifestyle options.

FOUR BROTHERS SERVING YOU

The Amish are famous for their beautiful farms and simple lifestyle. But did you know they have been excellent woodworkers for centuries?

With the increasing difficulty of making ends meet on a small farm, the Amish have expanded their impressive woodworking skills to adapt to the changing economy. Indeed, their old world craftsmanship and pride in their work is evident to all who ever encountered it.

As a result, Amish crafts, including gazebos, pavilions, and pergolas, are bringing prosperity to the community and are delighting customers worldwide.

This is especially important to the Beiler brothers, who themselves grew up on an Amish family farm. This upbringing gives you a glimpse into the character of the family at the heart of Amish Country Gazebos.

The Beiler brothers, Chet, Leon, Mel, and Tom, are committed to core values like integrity, reliability, service, excellence, and total customer satisfaction. In some companies, these are just words in a mission statement, lost in a filing cabinet in a forgotten storage room. At Amish Country Gazebos, they are the lifeblood of the company.

They represent the values that were instilled in the Beiler brothers as they grew up on their picturesque 100-acre dairy farm. And those are the values that today form the basis of the company's every interaction.

Each brother brings something special to the process that allows you to discover the best possible outdoor living structure for your landscape.

Together, the Beiler brothers – and all of your friends at Amish Country Gazebos – are dedicated to making sure you love every aspect of your outdoor structure design and delivery experience.

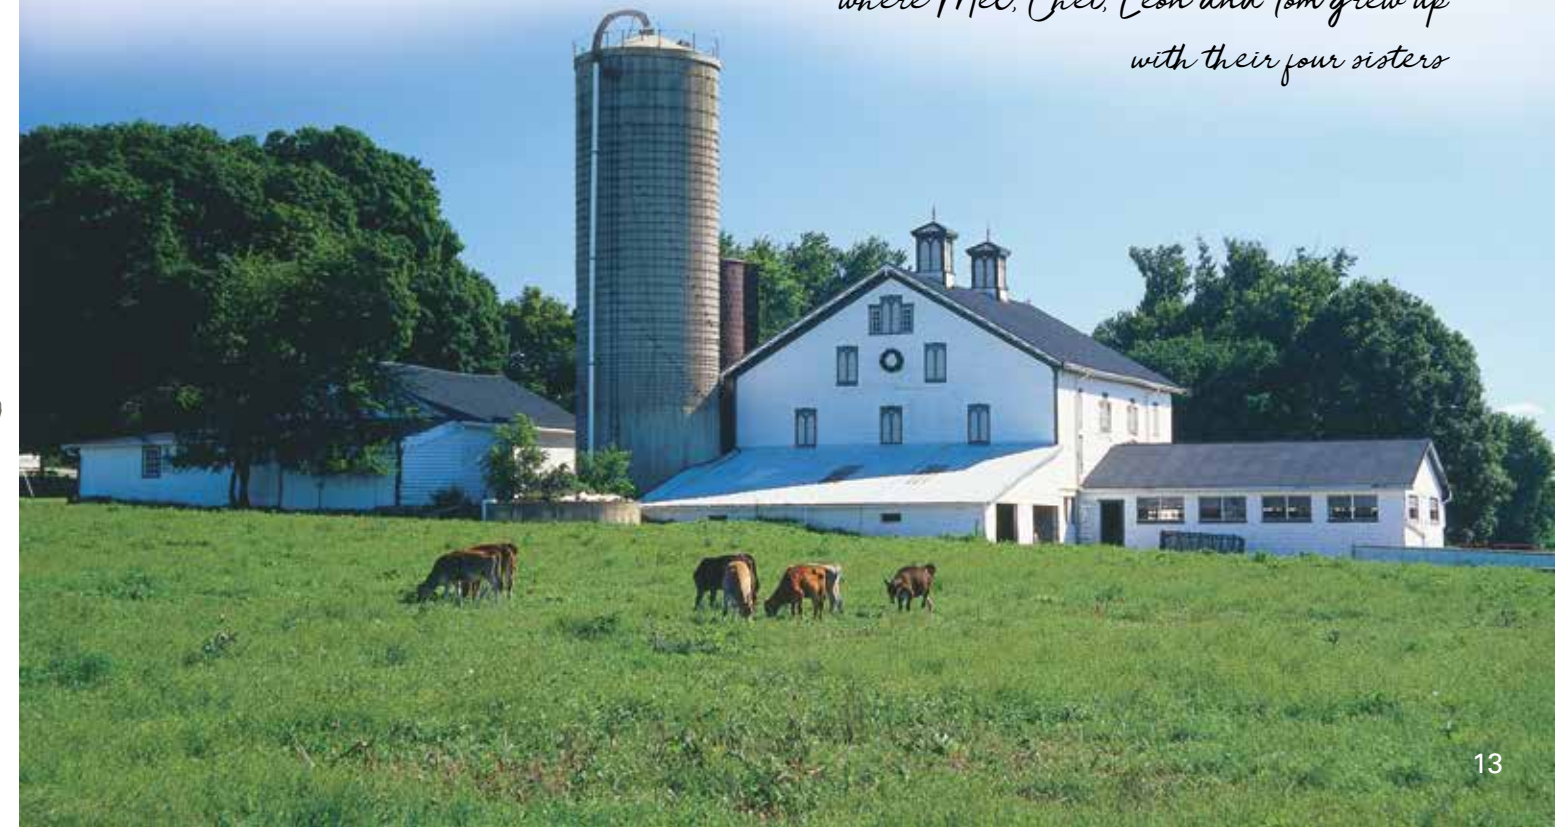

That's why Amish Country Gazebos never wavers from the timeless values it holds dear. It is also why we approach each structure as a work of art, and why we treat each individual customer as our only customer.

It's the best way to ensure that, from your first call until you finally relax inside your new gazebo, pergola, or pavilion, you will consider purchasing your Amish Country Gazebo structure to be one of the best decisions you ever made.

OUR PRODUCTS ARE BETTER

THE BEST LUMBER

We use only hand-selected, #1 grade, pressure-treated, twice kiln-dried southern yellow pine throughout our Amish Country Gazebos. An Amish Country Gazebo has 20 to 30 percent more lumber than other companies' gazebos. Your vinyl gazebo is equally more substantial.

2 x 6 ROOF RAFTERS

We use 2 x 6 rafters instead of 2 x 4 rafters because it makes our gazebos stronger and more durable!

1 x 6 TONGUE AND GROOVE CEILING

Many companies use plywood or knotty cedar boards for the ceiling. It pales in comparison to the beauty and strength of #1, hand-selected, pressure-treated lumber that we use in your gazebo ceiling.

2 x 6 FLOOR JOISTS

Again, some companies use 2x4s. Our Amish Country Gazebos' 2 x 6 floor joists are 50% stronger!

SCREWS, NOT NAILS

No other gazebo company uses stain-resistant screws throughout the gazebo like Amish Country Gazebos. Other gazebos are made with nails. We use only screws for the added strength.

SUPERIOR VINYL MATERIALS

When you select a maintenance-free vinyl gazebo from Amish Country Gazebos, you can be sure it won't fade or yellow. It will hold its smooth texture and strength.

WE ONLY DO GAZEBOS, PAVILIONS, & PERGOLAS

This single-minded focus benefits you in many ways: from engineered precision and quality craftsmanship, to world-class packaging and clear assembly instructions. We are the manufacturer, so there is no middleman. By buying direct from specialists, you know you're getting the finest quality gazebo at the best price, guaranteed. And we back it up with the best service in the industry.

ENVIRONMENTALLY RESPONSIBLE

Our wood is sourced from sustainably managed forests. Third-party independent auditors verify that our suppliers meet high standards for sustainable growing and harvesting of trees with the protection of habitat, wildlife, plants, water and soil quality, and a wide range of other conservation goals. Every year, our suppliers plant more trees than they harvest.

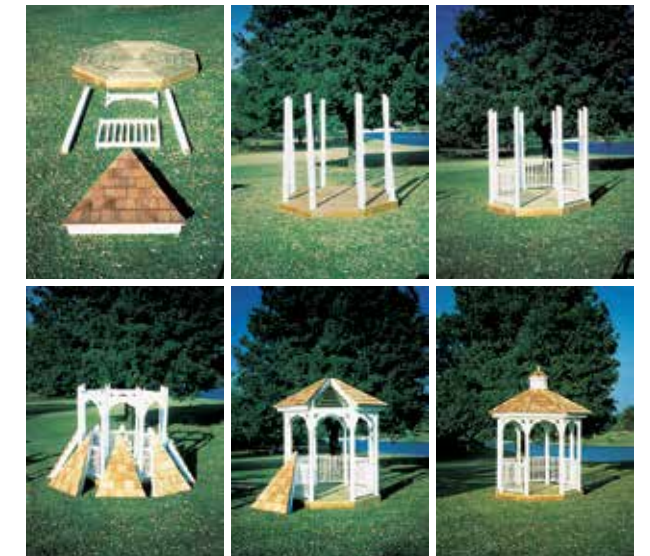

WORLD CLASS SHIPPING SYSTEMS

Our orderly packing and delivery systems make it easy for you to accept the delivery of your gazebo, pergola, or pavilion. With our nationwide network of delivery professionals, our goal is to make delivery smooth and joyful.

UNPARALLELED ASSEMBLY ASSISTANCE

Our assembly manual and customer service are the best in the business. We've been perfecting them for decades. But should you have any problems while assembling your structure, our production manager stands ready to assist you. (He loves his job... and we love him!) He has assembled hundreds of gazebos so now he can handle any question you may have.

A priceless investment with a lifetime warranty. (Shipping not included.)

FINEST AMISH CRAFTSMANSHIP

Amish-Made in the USA

One thing that makes an Amish Country Gazebos' gazebo, pergola, or pavilion so special is that it is built with genuine Amish craftsmanship. It is hard to describe the beauty and happiness that flow so naturally from the hearts and the hands of these dedicated carpenters.

If you can come to Manheim to tour our shop and meet our team, we welcome you! It's an experience you will long remember.

Amish Carpenters use our modern equipment to get every angle just right. Their attention to detail is unparalleled!

All of our cupolas are hand-crafted by our masterful Amish carpenter, Levi.

Delightful Evening

The beauty of the octagonal shape has inspired a sort of mysterious magic, romance, and calm for centuries. Its attractive symmetry and proportionally correct angles draw you (and yours!) in like a magnet. We know, because the cards, letters, and emails from folks like you confirm the legendary impact of our octagonal gazebo.

"The team arrived promptly on delivery day and worked to have the gazebo built that day. The gazebo is beautiful, and we use it often. This is the second gazebo we have purchased from Amish Country Gazebos and this time we opted for the fully screened version, and it has made all the difference! Now we can enjoy our gardens and yard without being a feast for mosquitos or being harassed by bugs. We also added electricity and installed a ceiling fan and a weathervane....so many helpful options to enhance this garden oasis. We couldn't be happier with our choice to continue using Amish Country Gazebos!"

MEET CHET BEILER, THE FOUNDER & CEO OF AMISH COUNTRY GAZEBOS

If there's one thing in business that matters to Chet Beiler, the founder & CEO of Amish Country Gazebos, it's this: providing unparalleled customer service.

"I am obsessed with how our customers experience us from the moment they discover our website, until they finally get to relax, connect and entertain in their new outdoor room," he stated. It's that passion for service to the company's customers that drives all he does in his role as head of the company. "My favorite part of the job is hearing from our customers, through their amazing reviews, hand-written letters and videos. What a joy it is to know our customers are thrilled by the transformation of their outdoor living space by one of our Amish-made structures!"

Chet and his seven siblings grew up on a picturesque 100-acre farm in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. "Our ancestors came to Pennsylvania 300 years ago from the Swiss-German region in Europe because they wanted religious freedom and economic opportunity," he explained. "Our Amish heritage teaches us to care for each other and to treat everyone with respect." He added, "What a privilege it is to still work with my three brothers today as we serve homeowners and contractors across the USA and beyond!" In fact, Chet's wife, Sharon, and his two daughters, Heather and Brianna, have also worked at the company over the years.

But what is it that makes the products of this family-run business possess the highest quality at the best value? "Amish craftsmanship," said Chet enthusiastically. "It's a beautiful thing to behold these Amish carpenters working. We are lucky to have such humble and quality-minded craftsmen making these gazebos, pergolas, and pavilions." The word "Amish" in Amish Country Gazebos is not a marketing ploy – the structures really are crafted by talented, hardworking Amish men from right here in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Since the company's beginnings, customers have raved about their outdoor structures from Amish Country Gazebos. "The one thing we hear more than any other is, 'We use our gazebo much more than we expected to!'" said Chet. "Our customers love the products, not just because of their beauty, but also because of their quality and usefulness. In many cases, our outdoor structures become the new gathering place for the families and businesses that purchase them. With our structures on your property, the creative possibilities for your outdoor space are endless."

ROMANCE AT ROME VALLEY VINEYARDS

Rome Valley Vineyards is nestled near the base of the Sierra Nevada Mountains in Garden Valley, California. The views are incredible – uninterrupted views of sky, trees and long stretches of grapes hanging on the vine are all around. The vineyard, where they make their own wines, is also a popular wedding venue - one look at the photos and it's obvious why! In fact, their slogan is, "Rome Valley Vineyards: A Da-Vine and Magical Place."

So when BJ Rome, the owner, was looking for just the right touch of class, elegance and practicality for their space, they decided on a 14' octagon pagoda gazebo from Amish Country Gazebos. "We loved the old-fashioned, nostalgic look of the structure," said BJ. "That, and the beauty and atmosphere it lends to our space." Their gazebo overlooks an incredible vista of the surrounding area, and has become the focal point of many weddings held. "I think it's a huge part of what draws people to the property," she said. "It's really complemented our business' outdoor space."

Aside from enjoying an incredible finished product, BJ said her experience with the company, from start to finish, was excellent. "Their customer service is outstanding," she explained. "They went above and beyond what was expected. I always recommend Amish Country Gazebos to others because of their superior service. Everyone there is amazing. I can pick up the phone any time and speak with one of the knowledgeable team members. It's like I am a customer who they care about. This type of service is rare and hard to find these days. The people at Amish Country Gazebos are always ready to answer a question or give me directions. Good customer service goes a long way, even years after you have purchased the product."

In fact, when their outdoor structure was installed – which they opted to do themselves – BJ was even more impressed. "The install took maybe a day! And the directions were very clear and easy to follow." she said. "Compared to other similar products on the market, the quality of our structure from Amish Country Gazebos is simply the best."

THE PERFECT TOUCH FOR A SPECIAL DAY

Back in the fall of 2016 when Christina and her now husband Jimmie Gilmer were planning an intimate backyard wedding, they felt like the space was missing something: a focal point. "We wanted a gazebo to be part of the ceremony and reception," she explained. "After researching gazebos online we discovered Amish Country Gazebos and found a model that was the perfect fit for our special day!"

One thing that really mattered to the couple was purchasing an American-made product, and Amish Country Gazebos delivered. "Any time that we search online for products to purchase one of the main things that we look for are products that are made in the United States," said Christina. "It is important to our family to support the country's economy, local businesses and to purchase items that are created by fine craftsmen here in the U.S."

She says it's hard for her to choose what she loves most about their gazebo. "It's difficult to pinpoint just one thing to like most about this product because everything about it is amazing!" said Christina. "It is beautiful, spacious and of the utmost quality. It is one of the best investments we have ever made for our family."

Christina notes that at every stage of her interaction with the company, everything went smoothly. "Amish Country Gazebos has the best customer service!" she said. "We were able to easily select the options that were best for us and everyone associated with the company was so helpful and friendly!" Christina and her husband opted to have the company install the structure and were very impressed by just how little time it took. "Eli and his crew came to assemble the gazebo for us on a Friday morning and were finished by that afternoon!" she explained. "The entire building process took them a little under six hours. They did an amazing job and were really nice guys."

Even two years after the installation, Christina says their gazebo still looks brand-new. "The product has held up beautifully!" she exclaimed. "It looks as perfect as it did on the day that it was built and has endured many a winter snowstorm and thunderstorms in the spring and summer." She's also quick to add that the gazebo has improved the overall look and feel of their backyard. "The gazebo is the most beautiful focal point of our yard," she said. "It made our wedding even more special and now we can relax inside of it any time that we want to. Our gazebo is admired by everyone in our neighborhood and any guests that come to our home." Now, the Gilmers enjoy spending time in their gazebo after a swim in their pool, taking in their first cup of coffee in the morning, hosting family barbeques, watching lightning bugs in the summer and the falling leaves in autumn. "The gazebo has made all the difference in our yard and thus in our lives," said Christina. "We absolutely love it."

When we asked Christina if she would recommend Amish Country Gazebos to others, she responded enthusiastically. "I would absolutely recommend ACG to others because they are the best in the business!" she said. "Their products are top of the line, they have outstanding customer service and their gazebos are stunning. Thank you for providing us with the perfect gazebo for our wedding and for the years to come!"

Most home owners prefer the benefits of a maintenance-free pavilion, but they also want to enjoy the beauty of our top grade wood. Not to worry, you can "have your cake and eat it too!" The ceiling of a vinyl pavilion is made with our hand-selected lumber, and it is gorgeous. We stain it a rich mahogany color which yields a stunning contrast to the white vinyl. And, rest assured, that sturdy, hand-selected, pressure-treated lumber is also found inside the vinyl sleeves. That's why our LIFETIME WARRANTY also applies to any vinyl pavilion.

"Doing business with you all was 100% GREAT in every regard. What your designer girl told us was right on. Quality and workmanship was excellent in every detail. It was a breeze doing the installation, no problems at all. Your website was very nice, and that made us give you a call. Then we took a trip down to see your shop and the Amish carpenters in person. Impressive! One of the easiest products we ever purchased with NO problems. THANK YOU VERY MUCH! WE LOVE OUR PAVILION AND USE IT EVERY DAY!"

PAVILION ELECTRICAL PACKAGE

Your electrical package will include a switch, that can control a light or fan, and a duplex receptacle. The duplex receptacle has two outlets on one box, as shown below. You will also be provided with enough wiring to run from electrical source to the top of a structure for a fan or light. The wood pavilion electrical package will also include a wooden trim piece. This is to conceal the wiring on the outside of your post. For vinyl pavilions, the wiring is run up the cedar or vinyl sleeve so it is concealed.

Electrical components will need to be mounted and installed by an electrician.

THE NEW STAR OF THE STAR BARN

The Star Barn is a historic landmark now located in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania and is well known to locals of Lancaster County and beyond. The structure, built in 1877, still stands today and was crafted in Gothic Revival-style and features – you guessed it – five-pointed stars, prominently featured on the structure and certainly unusual for barns of that era. In fact, it's one of the most photographed and artistically painted barns in America.

The barn and the farm have a storied history. The barn was originally constructed in the 1800s in Middletown, Pennsylvania and showcases many unusual features found almost nowhere else: a cupola, four dominant louvered star ventilators, a 56-foot-long vaulted stone tunnel, and other rare architectural features. Colonel John Motter, the owner of the farm and who commissioned the project, made a name for himself in his day as a bank president, hotel owner, and by raising and selling horses at the farm both during and after the Civil War. In later years, the Star Barn was converted into a dairy farm. John's barn remained standing through many eras of American history – wars at home and overseas, changing presidents and much more. Its longstanding presence even landed it a place on the National Register of Historic Places.

It was decided in 2015 that to preserve this gem of American history, the Star Barn Complex would be moved from its Middletown location, next to a very busy highway built in the 1970s, to a new location in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania. Today, it sits on the rolling countryside at Ironstone Ranch. The Star Barn is now a part of the Star Barn Village and is used for truly one-of-a-kind events in Central Pennsylvania.

But a new structure has joined the old in its new home: a 14 'x 28' oval vinyl gazebo from Amish Country Gazebos. The gazebo blends in almost seamlessly with its historic counterparts and offers attendees of weddings, parties and other celebrations at its new locale the chance to take in the beauty all around them. The gazebo is situated on a sparkling pond with structures from Star Barn Village surrounding it on all sides. There's no doubt that brides and grooms favoring outdoor nuptials will want to include this gazebo from Amish Country Gazebos in their ceremony!

But what makes this matrimony of the old with the new so special? The owners of the Star Barn at Ironstone Ranch donate their net profits to Brittany's Hope, a non-profit organization dedicated to aiding and facilitating adoptions of special needs children from around the world, headquartered in Elizabethtown, PA. Amish Country Gazebos is also proud to donate a portion of the company's profits to this worthy cause, enabling families to bring these children into their homes and make them a part of their forever families. That's a match made in heaven if you ask us!

MEET LEON BEILER, GENERAL MANAGER

Leon Beiler is the General Manager at Amish Country Gazebos, but he views his role as much more than simply a title. He explains just how his position affects the final product. "I process the customer's order for production with the goal in mind that our workers don't need to come back to me with any questions," he explained. "When I process the order, I begin to establish the delivery date. I'll determine how many weeks out based on the customer's request. Processing orders and arranging deliveries is a big part of what I do." While it's a big part of his day-to-day job, it certainly isn't all Leon does for the company.

In addition to making sure our customer's orders turn out just right, Leon also works closely with our craftsmen who build the gazebos, pergolas and pavilions. "Currently, we have 23 men in the shop and I'm accountable for their work even though they are incredibly self-sufficient," he said. "So I provide leadership to them. We're always striving to lessen the lead time. Ultimately, I oversee the work in the shop and help them to establish good, working systems in production to eliminate waste." When you decide to purchase an out-door structure from Amish Country Gazebos, you may have the pleasure of chatting with Leon. He'll work with you to communicate your expectations for the final product to the people who actually make it. "My role at Amish Country Gazebos affects the customer's experience in many ways," he elaborated. "I ensure that customers receive a timely response regarding the status of their deliveries and I also make sure that they get prompt answers if there's a problem! We're always in pursuit of excellence in our business practices. Since day one, we've been trying to get better because creating a quality product matters. I take that responsibility seriously, as do all the people who help to create your outdoor structures."

But Leon says his job is only possible because of the high standards Amish Country Gazebos expects to ensure customers receive the best product possible – which means not cutting corners. "What makes our products so outstanding is our dedication to constant improvement," he elaborated, noting a number of areas where the company could have lowered their standards to gain profit. "For example, I know some other manufacturers use 2X4 rafters in their gazebos. We could – but we don't. We use 2X6 rafters across the board so that we can offer our customers a stronger product." Leon said it's those kinds of decisions that make products from Amish Country Gazebos high quality. "From a business standpoint, we could easily save somewhere around $50 per gazebo if we use 2X4 rafters. So if we made 300 gazebos, that's $15,000 we could save. But we don't look at it that way. We want to make a beautiful product - without cutting corners."

As Leon reflects back on his upbringing with his brothers on the farm, he notes how that experience translates into his career in the family-owned business today. "There's a direct relationship to life on the farm," he mused. "That's where I learned how to work. My German and Amish heritage lends to my strong work ethic." He continued, pointing to the formative life lessons he learned as a boy working alongside his brothers. "I learned at a young age that hard work pays off," he said. "So I brought that mentality to my career at Amish Country Gazebos. We give our work our best efforts and the results will follow."

A DESERT OASIS

Marilyn Dunn and her husband, Danny, live in sunny Nevada and were searching for just the right touch to make their backyard retreat more inviting. Their large outdoor space features beautiful landscaping, an inground pool, palm trees and more – but they felt like it needed something else. That’s when they came across Amish Country Gazebos online. “I love the gazebo more than I love the house!” exclaimed Marilyn, who’s happily owned her gazebo since 2015. “When I was searching online and compared companies, I realized the Amish made the most beautiful designs.” Originally, the pair considered adding a balcony to their home, but they changed their minds once they saw the products offered by Amish Country Gazebos. “It’s amazing what an outdoor structure can do for a home,” said Marilyn excitedly. “I wanted a balcony, but we went with a gazebo - which was more affordable and better!”

After selecting a design and style – they opted for an octagon vinyl gazebo – the Dunns decided to install the structure themselves. Because of this, Marilyn said she had a lot of questions for the company and its owners about what to expect. “The entire team of employees at Amish Country Gazebos couldn’t have been nicer,” she gushed. “I must have called a million times to ask questions, and they always answered them with the patience of a saint!” She was particularly impressed by the high quality of customer care they received when walking through the design phase of the project.

Once the structure arrived and the Dunns were ready to install it, they looked to the detailed instructions conveniently provided with each of the company’s kits for guidance. According to Marilyn, the directions were simple, clear, and easy to follow. “The instructions were perfect,” she said. “They couldn’t be better. If we had any questions while setting it up, we just called and the team at Amish Country Gazebos helped us figure it out.”

Now the Dunns have truly transformed their backyard into a resort-like oasis – palm trees included. But the crowning jewel, according to Marilyn, is their gazebo. “The design of it just takes me away,” she explained. “It’s a retreat that takes me out of Nevada. I feel like I’m at a resort in the Bahamas!” The couple loves to entertain guests in their backyard and show off their gazebo, where Marilyn also holds tea for her friends. In fact, the pair loves the gazebo so much that it’s even been featured in their family Christmas card! Her one regret? “My only regret is that I didn’t get it sooner!”

ENGINEERING & PERMITTING

“Do I need a permit?” is a question you should be asking yourself. Permits are sometimes required to put up one of our structures as they are viewed by many municipalities as a permanent structure or an addition to living space. We highly recommend looking into permitting in your area. Your municipality or local borough office is a great place to go for information. Most times you can stop in and speak with someone directly to obtain the requirements and paperwork on permits, or you can sometimes print the information right off the internet. The paperwork should state the terms of what is allowed at your location and what will need to be approved. Amish Country Gazebos does not handle applying for the permit but we are more than happy to assist you along the way!

Most permitting offices will ask for specs of the structure. We have basic dimensions we can send your way when you're ready for them. Sometimes this is all the permit office needs to approve the structure. If a more detailed drawing is needed, we offer stamped sealed engineered drawings on our custom kits for an additional cost. These take an extra amount of time to get back as they are custom for your structure and your location so be sure to keep that in mind when you are planning the timeline for the installation of your structure. If engineered drawings are needed, you may order them prior to ordering your structure. Engineered drawings are non-refundable. Previous customers have had great success in obtaining permit approval with the help of our engineered drawings!

MISSION STATEMENT

Amish Country Gazebos and our staff are humbly, yet firmly, committed to the following:

1. Providing excellent and timely service in a professional manner by putting the friends we are privileged to serve, FIRST.
2. Creating a clean and inviting work environment where employees, vendors, and customers are treated with respect.
3. Developing a stable and profitable company through which individuals can grow personally in meaningful ways.
4. Re-investing in the community by assisting the needy.
5. Encouraging spiritual renewal and commitment to God.
6. Laughing a lot and finding joy in our work.

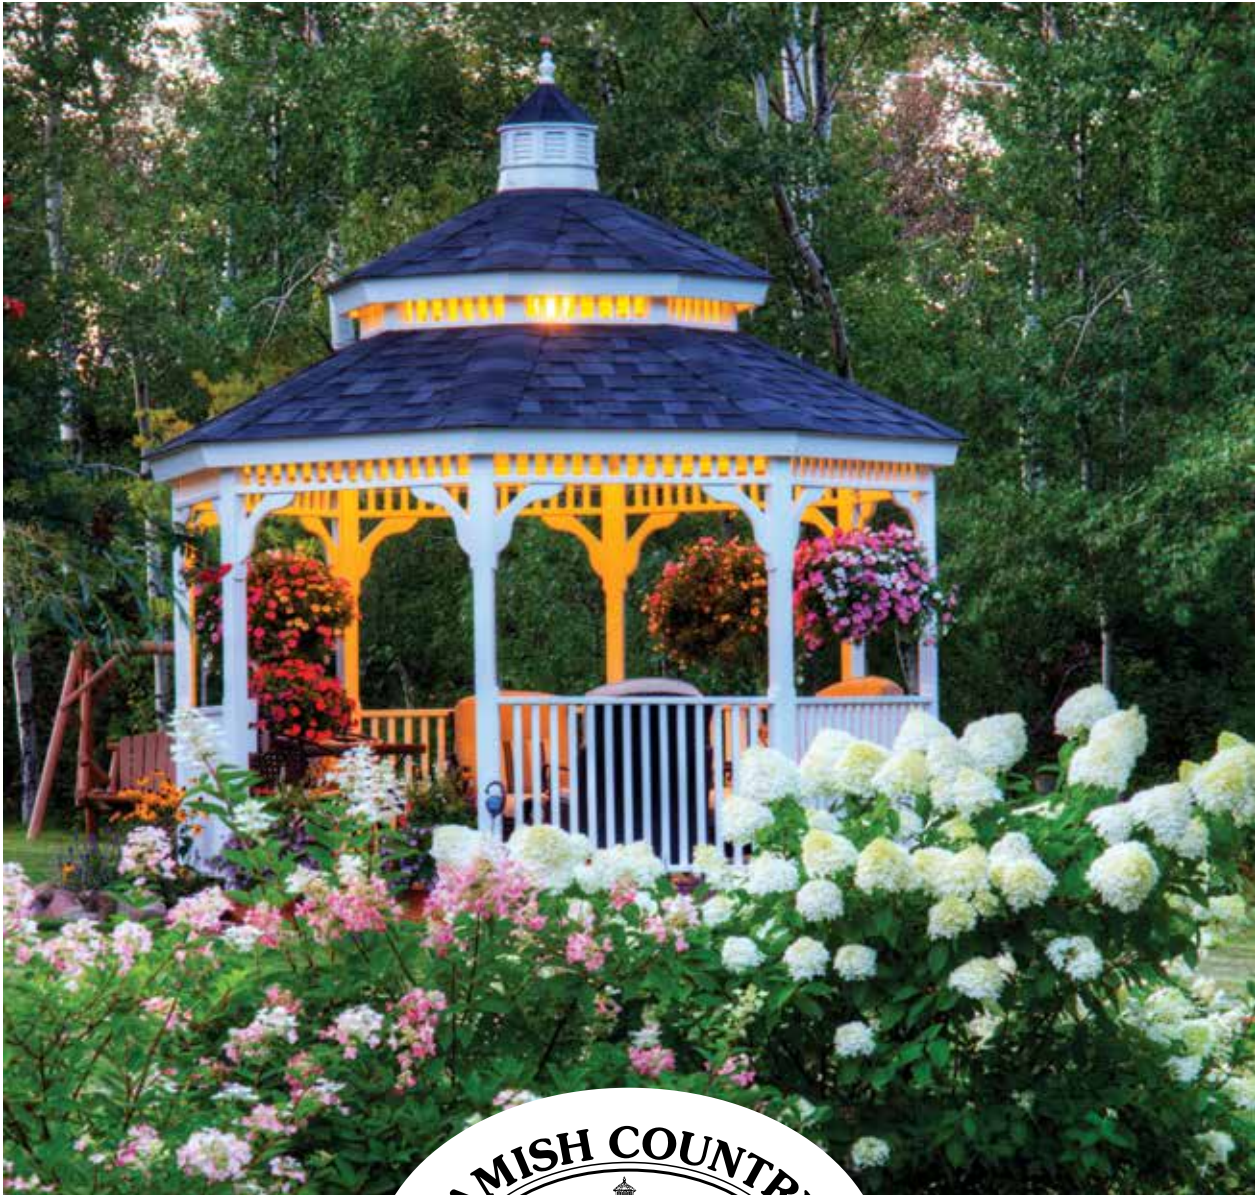

While we recognize these ideals as a challenge, we will do our best to live by them each day.
